

Steve Ferry
President, HD Supply Plumbing/HVAC

Steve Ferry is president of HD Supply Plumbing/HVAC. He brings 28 years of significant and diverse distribution experience in a variety of industries. Ferry is charged with growing the HD Supply Plumbing/HVAC business and increasing efficiencies across the organization.

Ferry joined the organization in 2006 as regional vice president for HD Supply Electrical and advanced to vice president of marketing and sourcing for the HD Supply Electrical and HD Supply Plumbing/HVAC businesses until the businesses were split in 2011.

Prior to joining HD Supply, Ferry was vice president of marketing and new business development for Arrow Electronics, one of the largest semiconductor distributors in the world. In this position, he led key business initiatives such as sales force effectiveness, operational excellence, business development, change management and supplier partnerships.

Ferry holds a bachelor's degree from Ball State University and has completed executive leadership courses at Harvard University and Columbia University.

HD Supply Plumbing/HVAC business is part of HD Supply (www.hdsupply.com) – a leading wholesale distribution company, providing a broad range of products and services to professional customers in the infrastructure & energy, maintenance, repair & improvement and specialty construction markets. With a diverse portfolio of industry-leading businesses, HD Supply is one of the largest diversified wholesale distributors in North America, with approximately 770 locations.

###